Definitions: For the purpose of this add-on,

• Battery means an electric-vehicle battery (EVB) (also known as a traction battery) which is a rechargeable battery used to power the electric motors of a battery electric vehicle (BEV) or hybrid electric vehicle (HEV). The energy storage system in electric cars comes in the form of a battery. Electric vehicle batteries are typically lithium-ion batteries and differ from starting, lighting, and ignition (SLI) batteries. Lithium-ion batteries have a high power-to-weight ratio, high energy efficiency and good high-temperature performance. In practice, this means that the batteries hold a lot of energy for their weight, which is vital for electric cars – less weight means the car can travel further on a single charge.

• Battery Electric Vehicle (BEV) means an electric vehicle, also referred to as an electric drive vehicle, is a vehicle which uses one or more electric motors for propulsion. It is an alternative fuel automobile that uses electric motors and motor controllers for propulsion, in place of more common propulsion methods such as the internal combustion engine (ICE). Electricity can be used as a transportation fuel to power battery electric vehicles (BEVs).
• Hybrid Electric Vehicle (HEV) means a vehicle, powered by traditional petrol or diesel engine combined with an electric motor that runs on a hybrid battery. These cars can switch between the Internal Combustion Engine (ICE) and the electric motor or draw power from both sources depending upon the driving scenario.

• Consequential Loss would mean the loss / damage more specifically expressed hereinabove caused to an insured vehicle not arising directly from an insured peril but as a direct consequence to the same.

• Drive Motor/electric Motor is a motor fitted on the axles that converts electric energy into mechanical energy.

• HEV (Hybrid electric vehicle) system contains of Electric motor, DC/DC step down converter, electric generator & power electronics controller.
